Dear Professor Léon Buskens,

I trust this message finds you well. My name is 5.1.2e [REDACTED], and I am a second-year PhD student at Ibn Tofail University, focusing on 5.1.2e [REDACTED]. I recently had the privilege of participating in the Nimar School of Democracy program in 2023. Additionally, I currently work as an 5.1.2e [REDACTED] at Euro-Mediterranean International University in Fes.

I am reaching out to express my keen interest in exploring potential opportunities for collaboration and exchange within Leiden University. Given your expertise in studying law and culture in Muslim societies, I believe that your guidance and insights would be invaluable to my research endeavors.

I am particularly interested in delving into the role of social media in shaping youth engagement in politics, and I am eager to explore how Leiden University's research aligns with my academic pursuits. I would greatly appreciate any advice or assistance you could offer in this regard.

Should you require any further information about my background or research interests, please do not hesitate to contact me. Your genuine help and guidance would be immensely valuable to me as I navigate this academic journey.

Thank you for considering my inquiry. I look forward to the possibility of engaging in a meaningful discussions and potential collaboration.

Kind regards,

5.1.2e [REDACTED]
