Dear [redacted] 5.1.2e

Indeed a pity we did not get to meet again. I know what you mean about time passing bye very quickly. I also have to use that as an excuse for taking so long to respond to your mail. I am very happy to hear [redacted] 5.1.2e has approved the cooperation proposal. As stated I would very much like to come and sign it in person. Unfortunately I have a lot of [redacted] 5.1.2e so am now planning to [redacted] 5.1.2e I very much hope this will be fine for you all and in particular [redacted] 5.1.2e I will of course coordinate the time of my visit and the text of a cooperation agreement with you beforehand. I will be in touch about this in due course.

With many best wishes and kind regards,
[redacted] 5.1.2e

Dear [REDACTED] 5.1.2e

I hope this email finds you well and in good spirits. I was hoping we could meet one more time before [REDACTED] 5.1.2e [REDACTED] 5.1.2e to further develop some of the points we had brought up earlier in our meetings (I and [REDACTED] 5.1.2e, but unfortunately those last days of [REDACTED] 5.1.2e unexpectedly faded like sand through the hourglass. I hope we get to meet again soon to catch up on our last discussion and explore further prospects that could benefit both our universities (students and faculty). Following up on our last discussion regarding the EU-sponsored and Leiden-based history Master programme, and after rigorously reporting the details and procedures to [REDACTED] 5.1.2e I am delighted to inform you that we can proceed as soon as you deem it fit to the signing and materialization of this new promising cooperation. We look forward to hearing from you soon!

Warm regards,

[REDACTED] 5.1.2e

We greatly appreciate your efforts in opening up such prospects and bringing together researchers - professors and students - from both our universities (Leiden and Mohammed V) to interact and hopefully cooperate on new research projects. On behalf of my colleagues here at the faculty of arts and human sciences (departments of History and English Studies), I wish to express my delight and excitement to meet and confer with [5.1.2e] as soon as the opportunity presents itself to discuss and explore opportunities for cooperation. As tight as I know your calendar is Léon, I will still push it and reach out to you in the hope that you could help facilitate the arrangement of this meeting.
