Dear [redacted]

I was wondering if it might be possible to book a lecture hall for 100+ people on Monday 26 at 13.30-15.00? Would it also be possible to live stream this event?

I am sorry for the late notice!

Best,

[redacted]

Dear all,

FGW also agrees and supports this event.

The support or help from the departments Communication & Marketing of both faculties (to be determined) is possible.

Therefore I include [redacted] (CM/FGW) in this email.

Kind regards,

Dear [redacted] J

I send an email earlier to [redacted] J and [redacted] J to let them know that FGGA and CDH would support this event. If FGW agrees I'll make sure to notify the servicedesk that the 2 week notice for reserving a room is not necessary and we are help to help organize this.

Met vriendelijke groet,

[redacted] J

Subject: Foreign policy event on Israel and Palestine

Dear [redacted] J and [redacted] J

I was wondering if it would be possible to hold a public event at a Leiden campus in the Hague? A friend of mine is bringing several foreign policy professionals to speak to MBuZa on February 26 about the situation in Israel and Palestine. This would be an opportunity to have them speak at a Leiden campus in the Hague on that afternoon.

The provisional topic of the title would be "Has Western foreign policy in Palestine and Israel failed and if so why?"

The speakers are high-profile people who have been in the media recently:

I was wondering if we could host this as a public event within the MAIR programme? I think it would be very interesting for our students and I think it would also get a lot of attention from the foreign policy community and the press. I know the new events regulations state that we require that two weeks' notice but can we find a way to accommodate this high-calibre event? It would be great for Leiden University's profile.

Best,

 J
